C. G. Patterson's Account of His Transactions.

His Relations with Conkim.

When John R. Conkim, the Secretary of the Market Savings Bank, fied, Mr. Denns, who was the first receiver appointed, said that the defautter had been the victim of two on stone men names Brite and Patterson, who has made him a cat's paw for their own a avantage. The following account of the adaity, as given by Mr. Patterson thus alternoon, differs, as will be seen, essentially 11 om that given by Mr. Dennis:—Mr. C. G. Patterson is the general agent in this city of the Deroy Coal Company of Pennsylvania, and has occupied that position since 1898. He says that he first became acquainted with Conkin by staying with him at the same hotel. Mr. Patterson ives at Yorkers, and, when the days are short, is in the habit of living in town. Conkin, he says, represented himself as a man of fortune and the manager of the Market Bank. Mr. Patterson received $6,550 from Conkins, giving as security first mortgage coupon bonds of the Derby Coal Company of Fennsylvania for e2,000, on the 2th of December, 1971, Mr. Patterson borrowed $1,500 from Conkins, giving as security wo promissory business notes, which are not yet matured, amounting in the aggregate to $1.3.3. These, Mr. ratterson decares, are the only monatery transactions he ever had with Conkin, and. with these exceptions, he never had say business, direct or indirect, with the Market Barin: Bank. He asserts in the most positive manner that he never had, and has not now, the most remote the tillon of defrainting the bank in any way, but is ready and willing at the proper time to pay all proper tis ready and willing as the never had, and has not now, the most remote the tillon of defrainting the bank in any way, but is ready and willing as the never had, and has not now, the most remote the tillon of defrainting the bank in any way, but is ready and willing at the never that the attacks upon time have caused much said and anxiety to himself and but family. He believes that the attack has grown on
